MARC

isn't another review platform.
It's unhosted review intelligence.

Fully automated, first-pass document review—before anything hits a hosting platform

MARC, from the team at Altorney, transforms document review by bringing it inside your corporate environment. Powered by GenAI, MARC automates first-pass review at scale—tagging, culling, and explaining document decisions—and dramatically reduces the volume sent to traditional review platforms. The result: more control, smaller review sets, faster turnaround, and significantly lower spend on review and hosting.

ALTORNEY

MARC can automate anything a first-pass review team can do—responsiveness, privilege, PII, PHI, issues, hot docs, and much more.

MARC

Built for how law departments work today.

Unhosted
Review calls take place in the corporate environment, and only the relevant data is sent to the review platform —cutting hosting volumes (and cost) by up to 80%.

Automate first-pass review—go right to QC
Review teams skip directly to QC with a fully tagged, culled dataset delivered to your review platform of choice.

Faster decisions
MARC can review over 1 million documents per day.

Zero prompting required
MARC automatically generates detailed review protocols from case documents—no prompt engineering or manual drafting is required.

Defensible outputs
Each review call comes with reasoning to improve consistency and enable audit trails, providing legal teams with confidence in GenAI decision-making.

Secure and private
Everything happens within your environment, using your LLMs of choice. This keeps sensitive information contained, reducing exposure and risk.

Lower cost, greater control
Slash both hosting and review spend, and regain control of process, timing, and insight.

MARC is built for eDiscovery, internal investigations, compliance reviews—any document review or classification project—enabling legal teams to bring work in-house and dramatically reduce costs on hosting and review.
